WOMEN'S SYMPHONY PLAYS BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE, TUES.; J. F. LEMAN LEADS

Phila. Organization Delights Hearers
in Closing Concert. Piotr
Wizla, Baritone, Pleases

W. S. THUNDER PERFORMS ABLY

The Women's Symphony Orchestra, of Philadelphia, rendered the closing concert of the current season of entertainment courses before a delighted audience which filled the Thompson-Gay gymnasium on Tuesday, April 17. This organization, under the direction of J. W. F. Leman, lived up to all expectations. The program was made up almost entirely of numbers of the lighter variety, the predominance of ballet music being especially noticeable, but all were done well, with a surprising vivacity. The balance and tone shading were commendable.

The feature number of the evening was the "Piano Concertstueck," with Wm. S. Thunder at the piano, the entire orchestra assisting. This number brought into light the excellent technique of the soloist, and showed the ensemble at its finest. Elgar's famous "Pomp and Circumstance," a ballet suite by Gretry-Mottl, "Tales from the Vienna Woods," by Strauss, the overture to Rossini's beloved "Barber of Seville," and the suite of three "Nell Gwyn" dances (German) composed the remainder of the orchestral offerings. All met with a most warm applause from the audience.

Wm. S. Thunder continued to be a favorite with Ursinus audiences by his brilliant work at the piano. As an encore to his "Piano Concertstueck," he gave Mendelssohn's immortal "Rondo Capriccioso." This number gave Mr. Thunder another opportunity to display his faultless technique.

ALL READY FOR PROM FRI.

PLAY IS CLIMAX OF WEEK-END

Last minute preparations for the Junior Prom and Play this Friday and Saturday, April 27 and 28, are progressing smoothly. All is in readiness for the biggest social event that has ever been held at the College.

The music for the dance will be excellent. All that need be said is that Allan Quirk and His Band, of Pottsville, will be the source of the melodic longitudinal waves, and it is said that this self same Band vibrates some mean vibrations. But that's not all girl-friends and ticket-buyers. Give ear to this.

An entirely new and novel palais de la danse will present itself when you step into the "gym" which will furnish the setting for the most exotic color effects and the latest thing in ballroom decorations. This is promised by "Bill" McAllister who has the work in tow. But that's not all. Listen!

The committee doesn't aim to fool when they put out favors for this little shindig. And that's not all. Oh well! We can't tell you everything. You'll have to come and see for yourself. Don't Esk.

It is very necessary that tickets be gotten as early as possible this week and Dick Fox is the man who deals the pasteboards.

The cast for the play to be given Saturday evening is working to give an exceptional performance. Not to be outdone by the standards which have been set by former Junior Plays they are endeavoring to make "The Patsy" by Barry Connors stand out above everything which has been given before.

All forecasts predict a highly successful performance. The play should be the climax of the week-end.

ANNUAL MAY DAY PAGEANT WILL PORTRAY SEA LIFE

The annual May Day Pageant to be held Saturday afternoon, May 12, on Patterson Field, has been worked out and written by the class in Pageantry.

An unusual and interesting feature of the Pageant this year is that the main scenes are to be laid under the sea, the majority of the characters will be those representing sea life.

The Queen, Betty Harter, '28, elected by popular vote of the girls of the school, and her attendants, one from each class, Helen Lucas, '28, Jo Riddell, '29, Katherine Sander-son, '30 and Mary Conety '31, are to take the parts of Mermaids.

The girls acting as heads of committees are: Olive Sargeant, '28, publicity; Polly Thompson, '29, dancing; Marie Markley, '29, costuming.

TRACK TEAM MAKES DEBUT IN MEET WITH TEMPLE, SAT.

Ursinus Weak in Field Events; New-comer Second in Scoring with Eleven Points

RAIN BIG WINNER IN CONTEST

Wading through a sodden track in a driving rainstorm, Temple University garnered a 96 to 30 win over Ursinus on Saturday, April 21, in the first dual meet held on the local track. Temple, with an experienced team, took eleven out of fourteen first places, and made clean sweeps in the 220-yard dash, the broad jump, discus, and javelin. Tinkler, the Cherry and White's hope for the Olympics, was high man with fourteen points to his credit, winning the broad jump and pole vault, taking second in the javelin, and tying for third in the high jump. Dick New-comer, veteran Bear flash, was second with eleven tallies. Fisher and Griffin, both of Temple, tied for third honors with ten all.

Old Joe Weather played hob with the times and distances. The atmosphere was far better for duck-hunting than for a track meet. The most respectable performance of the day, so far as time goes, was turned in by Hartranft of Temple, who negotiated the quarter in 53 1-5 seconds. New-comer came up from behind to take first away from Hartranft in the half-mile event, a slow race. Lackman and Black annexed the other five-pointers for Ursinus, the former copping the high hurdles, and the latter the high jump. About the best showing made in the field events was made by Tinkler, who went to 10 feet 6 inches in the pole vault, in which Gavin succeeded in annexing second place for the Bears. Charlie Keller took third in the mile and second in the two-mile run, both events being won by Fisher of Temple. The remaining Grizzlies were unable to place.

Since track records were established in all events but the hammer throw in this meet, it is unfortunate that better marks were not set. Almost all

LINLEY GORDON SPEAKS IN CHAPEL, TUES., APRIL 17

Friend of Ursinus Has Brought Many British Speakers to the College in Past

TOPIC INTERNATIONAL PEACE

The chapel speaker for the month of April was Mr. Linley Gordon who addressed the College at the chapel services in Bomberger Hall on Tuesday, April 17. Mr. Gordon is Extension Secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, and he has been instrumental in bringing many British speakers to the Summer Assembly held yearly at Ursinus in the summer months.

Mr. Gordon's topic was "Achievement of International Peace." In pursuance of his subject he spoke of the new international conception now dawning on the world. People's ideals and ideas must be changed. The old theory that armaments prevent war is false for armaments are provocative of war. The way to get peace is to prepare for peace and to do away with the old ideas of the necessity and inevitability of war. Mr. Gordon pointed out the many organizations devoted to the cause of international peace and the many efforts, official and otherwise, being put forth to that end.

In conclusion Mr. Gordon stated that the Christian Church must prevent any future wars. The Church has hitherto been on the side of war. The East no longer trusts the Christian nations of the West. They consider our actions hypocritical. The Church and the inventive genius of man can and must bring about a state of permanent peace.

ORIGINAL SKETCH FEATURES APRIL FROLICS IN GYM, FRI.

On Friday evening the girls of Maples and Superhouse gave a very well-planned Frolic in order to raise money for the Women's Dormitory Fund.

The first part of their program was a short shadow sketch, the "Auction Extraordinaire." This served as an entertaining introduction to the evening's frolic.

Next a Seance was presented whose scene was laid in Maples. The ghosts of many ancients honored in history or literature answered their call, and by so doing afforded much entertainment. This witty sketch deserves especial commendation for its originality, as the girls composed their own lines.

Following this literary part of the program, the College Orchestra played for an hour of informal dancing.

HIGHLAND FROSH HOLD DINNER

Many old bonds of friendship were renewed at the banquet held at the Arcadia Restaurant, Collegeville, on Saturday night, April 21. The participants at the feed were the members of the Senior class who roomed at Highland Hall in the freshman year of 1924 and their invited guests who were former classmates and occupants of the same hall.

The banquet was in the form of a reunion and an organization was formed, with Floyd Mulford as the secretary-treasurer, in order to promote a banquet and reunion every year and thus to keep alive the memories of Highland Hall.

Harold L. Wiand acting as toast-master, called on the guests for their remarks and all responded with accounts of their life since they left the Highland "gang." "Jap" Swinehart, a teacher in the Ridley Park High School, gave a very good account of his experiences in his profession. "Bob" Sieferth, an engineer

Grizzlies Once More Maul F. & M. With Win on Enemy Field, 15-7

Steadiness Enables Bears to Romp Away With Baseball Opener
At Expense of Traditional Rivals

GAME FEATURED BY HEAVY HITTING ON BOTH SIDES

The Bears opened the 1928 baseball schedule in a glorious fashion by thoroughly trouncing their ancient rival, Franklin and Marshall, on Friday, April 20, to the tune of 15 to 7. The game, played on the opponents' home field, was a batting spree through-out, F. and M. making nine hits and the Grizzlies twelve. A comedy of errors, seven in all, on the part of the Roses overbalanced Redler's nine strike-outs and sewed the game up for the visitors. The Bear's error column was clean. Mink, twirling for Ursinus, was nicked for six hits and walked as many more. At the end of the fourth frame he was relieved by Riordan. The red-headed Grizzly struck out three, walked one, and allowed but three hits in five innings. Redler heaved the entire game for F. and M. and yielded twelve hits. He was also guilty of two wild pitches, and Fay, the receiving end of the Nevonian battery, had three passed balls marked against him. The Red and Black battery-boys seem to have had more control, no slips being charged against them.

Heavy hitting was the order of the day. Between them, both sides slammed out six doubles, two triples, and two home runs. Bigley was high man at bat, garnering three bingles, one a double, one a three-bagger, and the last a circuit clout. His cohort, Lloyd Hoagey, exacerbated the horse-hide for a triple and a round-trip to the plate. Art Young and the Francis brothers contributed the remaining two-baggers for the Bears, while Sorochinsky and Fletcher did likewise for the Roses. Young pleaded guilty to grand larceny of three bases, and his teammate, Bud Francis, breaking into the varsity for the first time, added one more to the total. Redler and Chapel, with one and two thefts respectively, were the only ones to essay the Ty Cobb act for Nevonian.

On the fielding end, Hoagey made two outs and five assists, Schink made nine outs at first, and Bigley and W. Francis each sent five Roses to the bench. A lot of credit is due the Bears for handling a slugging match like this one without having a single miscue chalked up against them. Fletcher and Fay had the most put-outs for F. and M. with eleven and nine respectively. The errors were scattered pretty well over the club, Stoneback, Sorochinsky, and Redler alone escaping.

This makes the third major sport in which the Grizzlies have walloped their time-honored foes with overwhelming scores during the current year. The score of the annual grid-iron classic was 32-7 and that of the basketball struggle 38-21.

On Saturday the Bears journeyed to State College, but our old buddy, the Rain Jinx, kept them from using their claws. The next contest will be with Swarthmore, who will invade our lair on April 30 for the first home game.

HAVERFORD AND PENN RELAYS OPPOSITION FOR TRACK MEN

Coach R. W. Veatch's cinder path artists have a busy week ahead of them, with a dual meet against Haverford on the home track on Tuesday afternoon, and the Penn Relays on Saturday.

Haverford's team has been Middle Atlantic champions for the past three years, and just last week turned in a 96-30 victory over Villanova. The Bears are basing their hopes for points on Captain Dick Newcomer, Black and Lackman, all of whom won first places against Temple on Saturday.

The line-up for the event in which Ursinus is entered on Saturday is as follows: Delaware, pole; Temple; Ursinus; C. C. of Detroit; C. C. of N. Y. It is slated for 2.55 p. m. Four men and an alternate will be selected to carry the Red, Old Gold and Black from the following men: Newcomer, Ohl, Helfrich, Roth, Tomlinson, Alden, Lackman.

The entire student body wishes to express its deepest sympathy to J. Wilbur Clayton, '28, whose father died very suddenly last week.

URSINUS DRAMATICS

The Drama has now become an institution steeped in tradition at Ursinus College. Splendid coaching of plays, good selection by play committees, fine support by students and friends of Ursinus—each has contributed greatly to the furtherance of the Histrionic Art. Now, the faculty has given increased attention to this field by the substitution of a prize in pageantry for young women to be awarded in place of the former Women's Oratorical Prize.

Other attention has been given to dramatics, also. The Ruby of the class of '28 has used for its theme a motif based on the history of the drama. All these treatments emphasize two important facts concerning present day interests. The first may be stated—Universal recognition of the importance of the drama in our modern age; the second—The cultural influence of the drama in Ursinus life.

The plays presented in the past have been good. There has been characterization of emotional and humorous nature. Various passions have been portrayed and portrayed well. Thus it is that with this background in Ursinus dramatics of the past that we look with great anticipation toward work of the future.

"The Patsy", by Barry Connors, which the Juniors will present on Saturday evening will be a departure from the types of the past selections. Therefore we are interested in noting how great will be the success of the presentment. "The Patsy" is pure comedy, humor of the American type. There is essentially none of the ultra-dramatic seriousness in it, and consequently it constitutes a difficult piece of work in the eyes of the critic. The sophistry and nonchalant attitude of the blase American is a role which may well be studied diligently by the best of actors. This is what the Junior Play cast has taken upon their shoulders and as a result many students interested in Dramatics look forward to another Ursinus achievement.

We have spoken concerning the Ursinus traditions in dramatics and have given an opinion on the place of dramatics today, universally, and in college. The example of a work which we are to witness in the near future has been given; but in the more distant future what is to be the organization and means of development of our dramatics? The literary societies which have fostered the annual productions have become impotent to carry out the program for which they were organized. What is to be the means of carrying on our traditional dramatical work? Evidently it cannot be the societies. Therefore it is our contention that activities in this field should be carried on by some organization on the campus which would be of more universal membership and scope than that of the present Curtain Club. The organization suggested might be merely an enlargement of the present club or it might entail the creation of an entirely new society which would operate independently, keeping the Curtain Club for an honorary organization which place it fulfills now.

By bringing into existence such a proposed organization, having it supplant the present defunct literary societies, the future of the Ursinus Drama could definitely be assured. H. H. A., '30.

THE JUNIOR PROM

We wish to use a portion of this column today for the purpose of advertising, because we feel that what we are advertising deserves special mention—the Junior Prom. This dance is scheduled for Friday of this week, and promises to far surpass anything that has ever been attempted in a social way at Ursinus.

Probably many of the readers of the Weekly do not realize how greatly the Prom will differ from all ordinary dances held at the College. The music will be "dispensed" by an orchestra which is extremely well-known in the Coal Regions, Allen Quirk and His Band. The decorations are being planned by a professional decorator. The favors for the ladies will be beautiful as well as useful, the committee promises. In short, everything will be "done brown."

With such a gala time promised, many of the students and alumni will surely desire to be in attendance. The committee, as well as the Junior Class, distinctly wishes it understood that they are not asking you to do them a favor by going to the Prom—they want to give you the chance to "get in on" the biggest social event ever held at Ursinus.

Due to the fact that the Junior Class is establishing a precedent by having the first Prom, it is especially desirable that this function be a huge success, and this can be possible only if a large number of dancers get "all dressed up" and hie themselves gym-wards on Friday evening.

Now as to this matter of invitations. It is to be understood that admission to the Prom will be by invitation only. These invitations are issued by the Junior Class, each member of the class receiving two invitations to send to his friends, so the logical place to receive an invitation is from some member of the Junior Class. However, if there are any alumni or students who are unable to get invitations, arrangements may be made by seeing or writing to any member of the Prom Committee, which is headed by R. M. Fox.

Let's all turn out, then, and make the Prom of the Class of 1929 something that will live in the history of Ursinus College.

C. R. S., '29

WEEKLY WITTICISMS

Heard at the Concert Tuesday:
"Bill Thunder will soon be applying for admission to the College—wouldn't he look cute in a dink and tie?"

"I wonder if the orchestra has a lady porter, too?"

We hope that the baritone didn't think we were trying to rush him or discourage him when we applauded in the middle of his first number. If he would have sung in English, we should have known better.

Again we are forced to discuss the weather. If the weather man wants us to stop "riding" him, he'd better stop giving us snow and tennis weather in the same week.

We are all agog with anxiety over the May Day pageant. To tell you the truth, we're scared. Who wouldn't be when they're going to have sea monsters?

Somebody made the nasty remark the other day that the only reason why there aren't more red-headed people in the world is because ivory doesn't rust.

Y. M. C. A.

Only a handful of members turned out last Wednesday evening for the Y. M. C. A. meeting, in which the new officers for the coming year were to have been installed. Upon investigation it transpired that the meeting had evidently not been properly announced. In the absence of the old officers, President-elect Harvey Lytle took charge of the meeting and suggested that since the number present was too small for the installation ceremonies, and since nothing else had been prepared for the evening, a short song service be held after which the meeting would adjourn until the following week. The suggestion was acted upon; after responsive reading, a prayer, and the singing of several hymns, the service closed.

The Y. is looking for a large crowd next week to welcome the new men into office.

Y. W. C. A.

At a very important meeting of the Y. W., held on Wednesday, April 18, the cabinet for the coming year was installed. In an impressive ceremony, the old cabinet turned over their places to the girls who are to fill them next year; Ruth Moyer, '28, the retiring president, gave the chair to Jane Kohler, '29, the newly elected president. The other officers for next year are: Margaret Johnson, '30, vice president; Marguerite Reimert, '31, secretary; Alice Cassel, '30, treasurer and Helen Green, '31, pianist. The remainder of the cabinet includes: Marie Markley, '29, Catharine Witman, '30, Gladys Barnes, '30, Jeanette Strauss, '29, Irene Ackerman, '29, Mary Rule, '29, Ruth La Wall, '31, Ada Miller, '30, Margaret Stocker, '29, and Evelyn Lake, '30.

In a short message of greeting, Miss Kohler stated that the spiritual phase of the Y. W. would be emphasized in the coming year. After the singing of a hymn, the meeting was adjourned.

Y. M.-Y. W. C. A.

A joint Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. meeting is scheduled to take place Wednesday evening, April 25, in Bomberger Hall, at which time Dr. Holmes will speak upon the subject "True and false forms of Patriotism."

Dr. Holmes comes to us on an invitation extended to him by Prof. C. V. Tower, an intimate friend.

Dr. Holmes is well known to many eastern college audiences having spoken in many colleges along the Atlantic seaboard. He is at present professor of Philosophy at Swarthmore College. Being an able speaker who knows his subject thoroughly he should prove a treat to all those who hear him Wednesday evening. A large audience is looked forward to by the officers of the christian associations.

The Tower Window

I have just finished reading an article on collegiate education in which the position is taken that the old-time college is in danger of being thrown into the discard. The writer assumes that because numerous "experiments" are being conducted here and there, colleges are no longer possessed of any well defined purpose, as though these efforts were like those of a drowning man grasping at straws in an effort to save himself. He finds also that the function of the college is differently regarded among institutions—some stressing the amassing of knowledge and others culture and training without much regard to the content of studies.

Are these developments indeed signs of degeneration? Experiment is the modern way of making progress. That colleges are, here and there striking out on new lines and applying original methods is a sign of healthy growth. These movements indicate a further integration, not disintegration, of the system of higher education. Uniformity and inextinguishability would be more certain signs of decay. The colleges of America are not panic stricken by any means. They are alive to the needs of our times. These needs are not always conceived in executive offices and faculty chambers as they are in the market places or in the dens of magazine writers, but that does not mean that they are ill conceived or aimless. Perhaps college faculties know better how higher education should be conducted than do their critics.

Another peril to the old-fashioned college the writer sees in the oncoming junior college—the two-year institution immediately above senior high school. This type of institution is likely to get permanent foothold in populous centers and may be of much local benefit. But the junior colleges will have their problems too. How will they, in the same classes and by the same methods, prepare students for vocations on the one hand and for the senior colleges on the other? This question is now vexing the high schools. To push the point for the parting of the ways two years further on merely aggravates the difficulty. Furthermore, with the general advance of education, there will be scant satisfaction with a two year college course. Not even does the thoroughly sophisticated college sophomore himself consider that he is fit for graduation! Surely nobody else thinks so.

The institution that is equipped to give instruction suited to the last two years of a four-year course is thereby the better fitted to give the instruction of the first two years. To the students of the two lower years the work of the higher years is a constant incentive and inspiration, while association with older and more advanced students is a valuable help in the formation of ideals and the development of character. We do not see in the junior college a formidable competitor to the regular four-year college.

Anyway why shorten the period of education? Did not John Fiske long ago point out that with the advance of civilization the period of immaturity, and therefore of education, lengthens out? Is our civilization slipping backward, that we should shorten the period of preparation? And why hurry the life-work? In a single generation we have so increased efficiency by means of natural forces and mechanical devices, that the amount of work to be done by mankind has been greatly lessened. Intelligence and skill, not long hours, is what is required. The time is approaching when for most persons there will be more hours of leisure than hours of work. Preparation for the profitable use of leisure time is one of the big objectives of education today. For this liberal education is the only kind that suits. The last two years of the standard college course are the best for this purpose in the whole American system.

The great concern of the four-year liberal arts colleges will not be how to hold the field, but how best to give the service which our advancing civilization demands of them. To this end let the criticism and the agitation go on.

EXTEMPORANEOUS TALKS

FEATURE OF FORENSIC CLUB

The meeting of the Webster Forensic Club on Tuesday evening proved the most stimulating and animated of the year. The reading of the minutes was preceded by the distribution through blind selection of the topics for individual expansion and group discussion. Charles Keller opened the program with an essay entitled "Aristodemocracy," expounding an intellectual aristocracy. The series of extemporaneous ten-minute talks that ensued, owed its successful treatment to its suitable apportionment as much as to the degree of individual unfoldment. The development of local questions such as over-organization at Ursinus, the abolition of final examinations, the justification of student government, and such national issues as style regulation, imperialism, and the tariff revealed the preoccupation of the members. The resulting open forum evoked a free exchange of ideas without personal recriminations and the evening was climaxed by the advisor's report, constructively criticising each participant.

HILL SCHOOL TRACK MEN

TOO MUCH FOR YEARLINGS

The Freshman track team bowed to Hill School in a dual meet held at Pottstown on Saturday, April 21, by a score of 104 to 22. Cold weather and rain hampered both sides. Dodge, Wofford, Tritle, and H. Allen were tied for scoring honors at eight points apiece. McBath and G. Allen led the scoring for the Grizzly Cubs with five tallies. The best times were Dodge's sprint of 10 2-5 seconds in the 100-yard dash, and Polk's dash in the 440 for 54 4-5 seconds. McBath's heave of 41 feet, 10 1/2 inches in the shot put was the feature of the field events. The lack of experience of a number of the little Bears was shown plainly in several events.

100-yard dash—Won by Dodge, Hill; second, Wofford, Hill; third, Betmer, Hill. Time, 10 2-5 sec.

FROSH BASEBALLERS VICTORS OVER HILL AND WYOMING

The Frosh baseball team ushered in the current season by well-earned victories over two formidable preparatory school teams, defeating Hill School 4-3 on Wednesday, April 18, and trouncing Wyoming Seminary by an 11-8 count on Saturday afternoon. The Hill game was a pitchers' duel, Hunter having the advantage of better support. Hill's miscues were many, some weird tossing from base to base helping Kerper to make a home run on a bunt, scoring Hunter. The Cubs were never in great danger, Hill's rally in the eighth after tallying two runs in the seventh being nipped in the bud.

Frosh ..... 0 2 0 0 0 2 0 0—4
Hill ..... 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 0—3
Batteries: Frosh—Hunter and Meckley; Hill—Gillison and Gibson.

After trailing behind a seven-run lead in five scoreless innings, the little Bears ruined Wyoming's hopes for an easy victory by annexing eight runs in the sixth. Shelly, who had held the yearlings down up to that time, went to pieces, walking four straight men. Four errors in a row on the part of the up-state lads, plus a few hits from the Frosh, gave the home team a one-tally lead. Two more markers were chalked up in the seventh and another for good measure in the eighth. Rain halted the game at the end of the eighth frame. For Ursinus Houtz distinguished himself in center field. The local "Grey Eagle" covered center garden well and produced a timely hit. Dennis, the Bears' moundsman, and Coble garnered two bingles, one of Dennis' socks being a double. Bunnell, Wyoming's keystone guardian, shone for the visitors, collecting three safe smites of the horse-hide.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT TOPIC

OF WOMEN'S DEBATE MEETING

A much debated but always interesting subject was discussed in the Women's Debate Club meeting Monday evening in Bomberger. This was "Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished." The affirmative was upheld by Marie Markley, '29, and Olive Sargeant, '29, who maintained that this form of punishment did not sufficiently deter crime, and that it was not suited to the present advanced stage of civilization.

Gladys Barnes, '30, and Rebecca Price, '31, maintained that capital punishment acts as a deterrent to crime and is the only suitable remedy for criminal conditions in the United States.

Both sides were ably contended and the decision of the judges was in favor of the negative. The judges were Pauline Thompson, '29, Marjorie Traves, '29, and Florence Benjamin, '30. Dr. White's comments proved helpful. Sara Shafto, '30, was received as a member of the club.

WOMEN'S SYMPHONY PLAYS

BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

Piotr Wizla, baritone, was the second assisting artist. He showed himself possessed of a voice with much clarity and an extremely wide range. He sang Leoncavallo's "Prologue," and a group of three selected numbers, "The Gypsy Love Song" (Herbert) and Oley Speak's ever popular "On the Road to Mandalay." The other song of this last group, "Heart Bowed Down," by Balfe, was unfamiliar to most of the audience, but its beautiful melody and lovely sentiment made it an instant favorite. It was also the best of Mr. Wizla's numbers, from the standpoint of rendition.

employed by the city of Reading, was the next to respond. John Evans of the Du Pont Company, related several of his pleasant memories at the old hall; John Keyser preparing to enter the medical profession, was the next on the program. The last of the guests to respond was Ronald Holson who told of his recent travels in the United States. Mr. Holson plans to return to Ursinus in order to prepare for the medical profession. He intends to enter the Medical School at Harvard upon graduation from Ursinus.

The members of the undergraduate body were next called on for responses. Peterson, Mulford, Koons, Meckstroth, Baker, and Wiand recalled in their speeches the pleasant memories connected with the Highland Hall "gang" of 1924.

Next year the Banquet and the reunion will be even better and it is hoped that the whole crowd of 30 members will attend and live over again in memory the best year of their lives, the year of 1924 at Highland Hall.
